

How Much Will A Pumpkin Grow in A Year? #TBT

Description

For her first Halloween, we dressed Avery as a pumpkin, and this year weâ€™re using the same costume again. For one, it saves money, and two, weâ€™re taking advantage before she has a say in her choice of costume.

Itâ€™s already happening with her clothes and diapers, and if we pick the wrong color, youâ€™d think the apocalypse had arrived! Just like last year, Going Momâ€™s work had a fun Halloween event for the kiddos, so Avery and I made a trip to the event to see Mommy and friends/co-workers.

She might've been in the same costume, but a lot changed since the first year. The biggest change was that she could use her own legs to walk around instead of carrying her everywhere. We thought she'd be shy around all the other kids and adults, but she proudly stated "I'm a pumpkin" when people asked, and she was quite playful.

She even played football with a baby boy.

He was clearly not interested in the oblong ball as his costume makes it apparent heâ€™s into basketball.

We had a few breakdowns while there, mainly because she wanted to go up and down the stairs (just like her dad!), but all in all, it was a great time. I enjoyed seeing/meeting everyone and getting to show off our beautiful, constantly growing pumpkin. Here she was in the costume last yearâ€¦

â€¦Fast forward to this year andâ€¦

Whoa, it takes a totally new camera angle! So, to answer the question of how much will a pumpkin grow in a year, Iâ€™d have to go with A LOT!

Our family pic with â€œthe pumpkinâ€• last year looked a little like thisâ€¦

When compared to this yearâ€™s picture, â€¦yeah, must be something in the good food and breast milk. Not only did our pumpkin grow more than double in size, she grew in terms of crazy too.

Or, maybe we all did. Who knows? Isn't that just part of being a parent?

Have you reused the same costume for your kid or yourself before?
