

Four Words Per Picture 3: October in Review

Description

I know the most exciting day in October is tomorrow and I'm missing out on reviewing our full month, but I'm sure our Halloween adventures will be enough for their own post. Besides, this is the last Friday of the month, so I'm sure all anyone wants to do is look at pictures, not read paragraphs from the mind of some stay-at-home dad. Although, I hear he's a pretty cool guy!

These are mostly in chronological order, but I'm not making any promises, if you even cared. ðŸ™, Mom was not home.

No time for cooking.

Testing her balance skills.

Our backyard project helper.

Where did she go?

Moving up in strength.

Seesaw with the family.

A visit to G-Maâ€™s.

Bored in the kitchen.

She feeds herself breakfast!

And returns the plate!

Camping with my love.

My wrist never hurt.

Back ride on Mommy.

Special delivery from NuttZo!

Almost independent at dinner.

Two year molar terror!

Helping Daddy make pancakes.

I love G-Ma's hair!

Working abs with Mommy.

Breakfast at MY table!

Our crazy pumpkin family.

Still squatting every day.

Our pumpkin has grown!

That concludes our pictures for October, minus the last day, Halloween, which will obviously have its own post.

One update I figured you donâ€™t want a picture for is that I had another lapse of staph. Thankfully, I recognized the pain in my ass and my very intelligent wife made me go to the doc. Iâ€™m currently on freakinâ€™ antibiotics (not a fan but know they are needed for this) and hopefully theyâ€™ll wipe (pun intended) the staph clear.

Hope you have a great weekend and be safe trick-or-treating. Weâ€™re taking Avery out, but not collecting candy.

Are you going trick-or-treating?

Any other plans for the weekend?

Date Created

2015/10/30

default watermark