A Baby Timeline On My Samsung Galaxy

Description

Iâ€™m going back 2 Aprilâ€™s ago when I posted this baby timeline using pics on my Samsung Galaxy. Itâ€™s been long enough and I enjoy looking back to see how small our growing girl used to be. Enjoy!

So, we have been without internet for two days now. I am writing this from my phone using data I hardly ever use; stupid AT&Tâ€¦

Whatâ€™s even cooler is they are finally building on the empty lot next to our house. â€¦. right next to the nursery. Please sense my sarcasm. I guess the silver lining Iâ€™d that the workers talk loud enough that Avery might pick up a second language without us doing anything.

default watermark

default watermark

Since I wanted to have a post for Sunday, I figured I would just share the timeline of pics I have on my phone. Lucky you, I know!

And lucky me gets to enjoy this steamed organic broccoli with nutritional yeast, cayenne, and mustard. Seriously, I love this stuff!

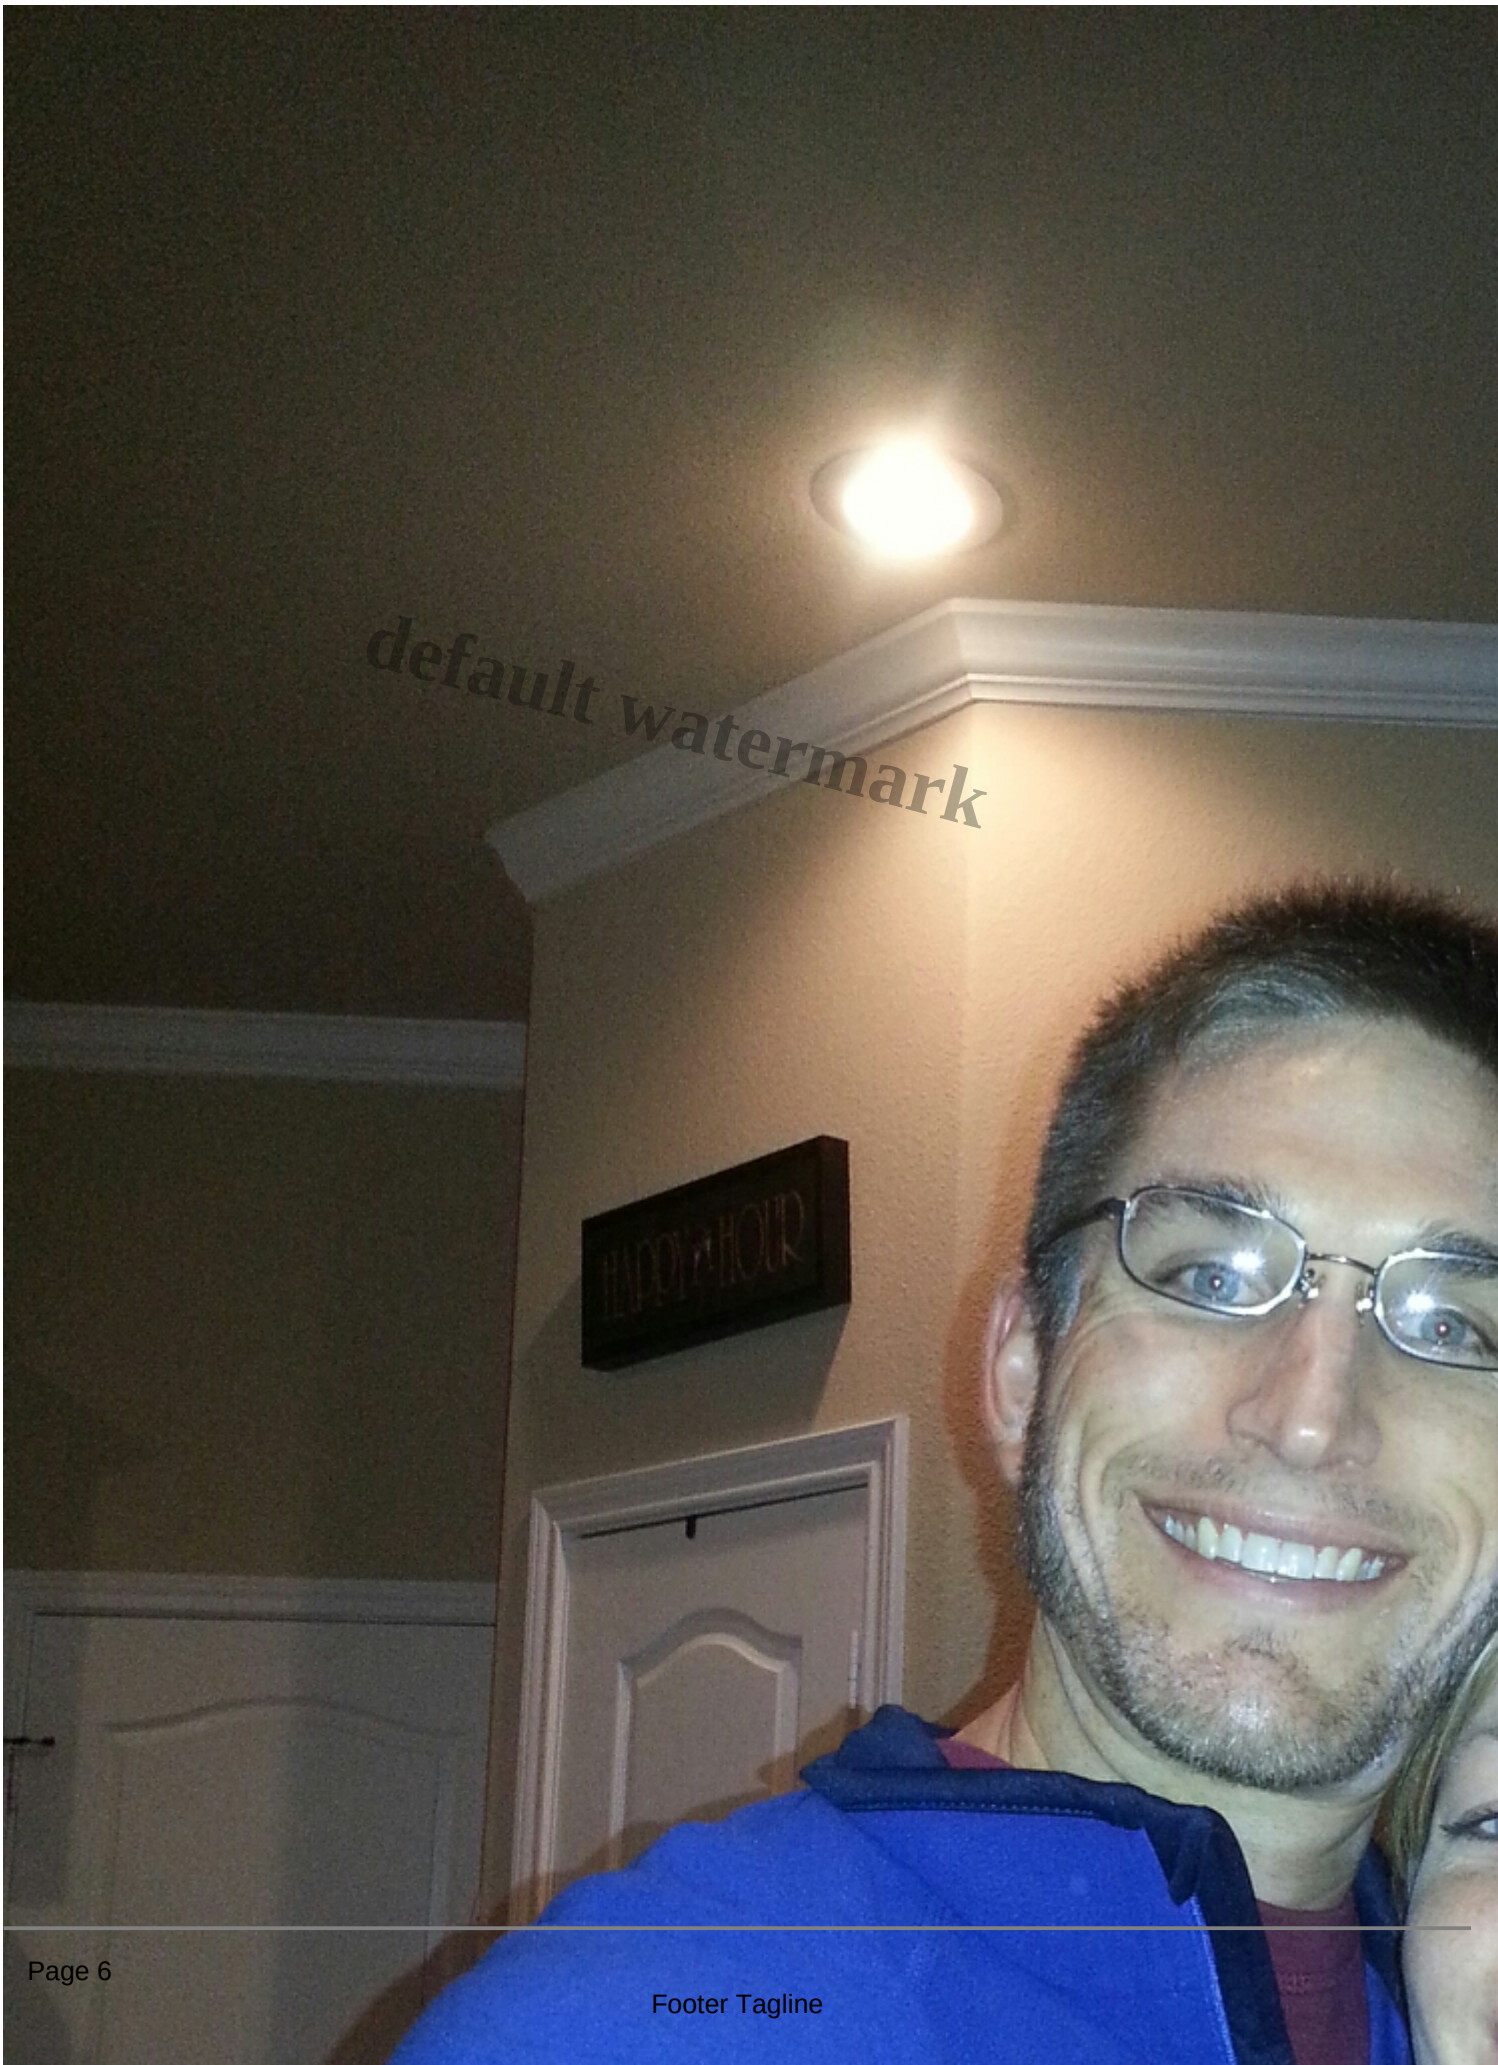
default watermark

default watermark

Of course Iâ€™m having more of something else after, and even more after that. And yes, thatâ€™s a spork Iâ€™m using.

Iâ€™ll start with a picture of us before leaving to go to the hospital.

default watermark



default watermark
HAPPY HOUR

Hereâ€™s Kelleyâ€™s belly. .

default watermark

default watermark

At the hospital, I was excited about being coach.

default watermark

COAC
default watermark

Kelley, on the other hand, wasnâ€™t too thrilled.

default watermark

default watermark

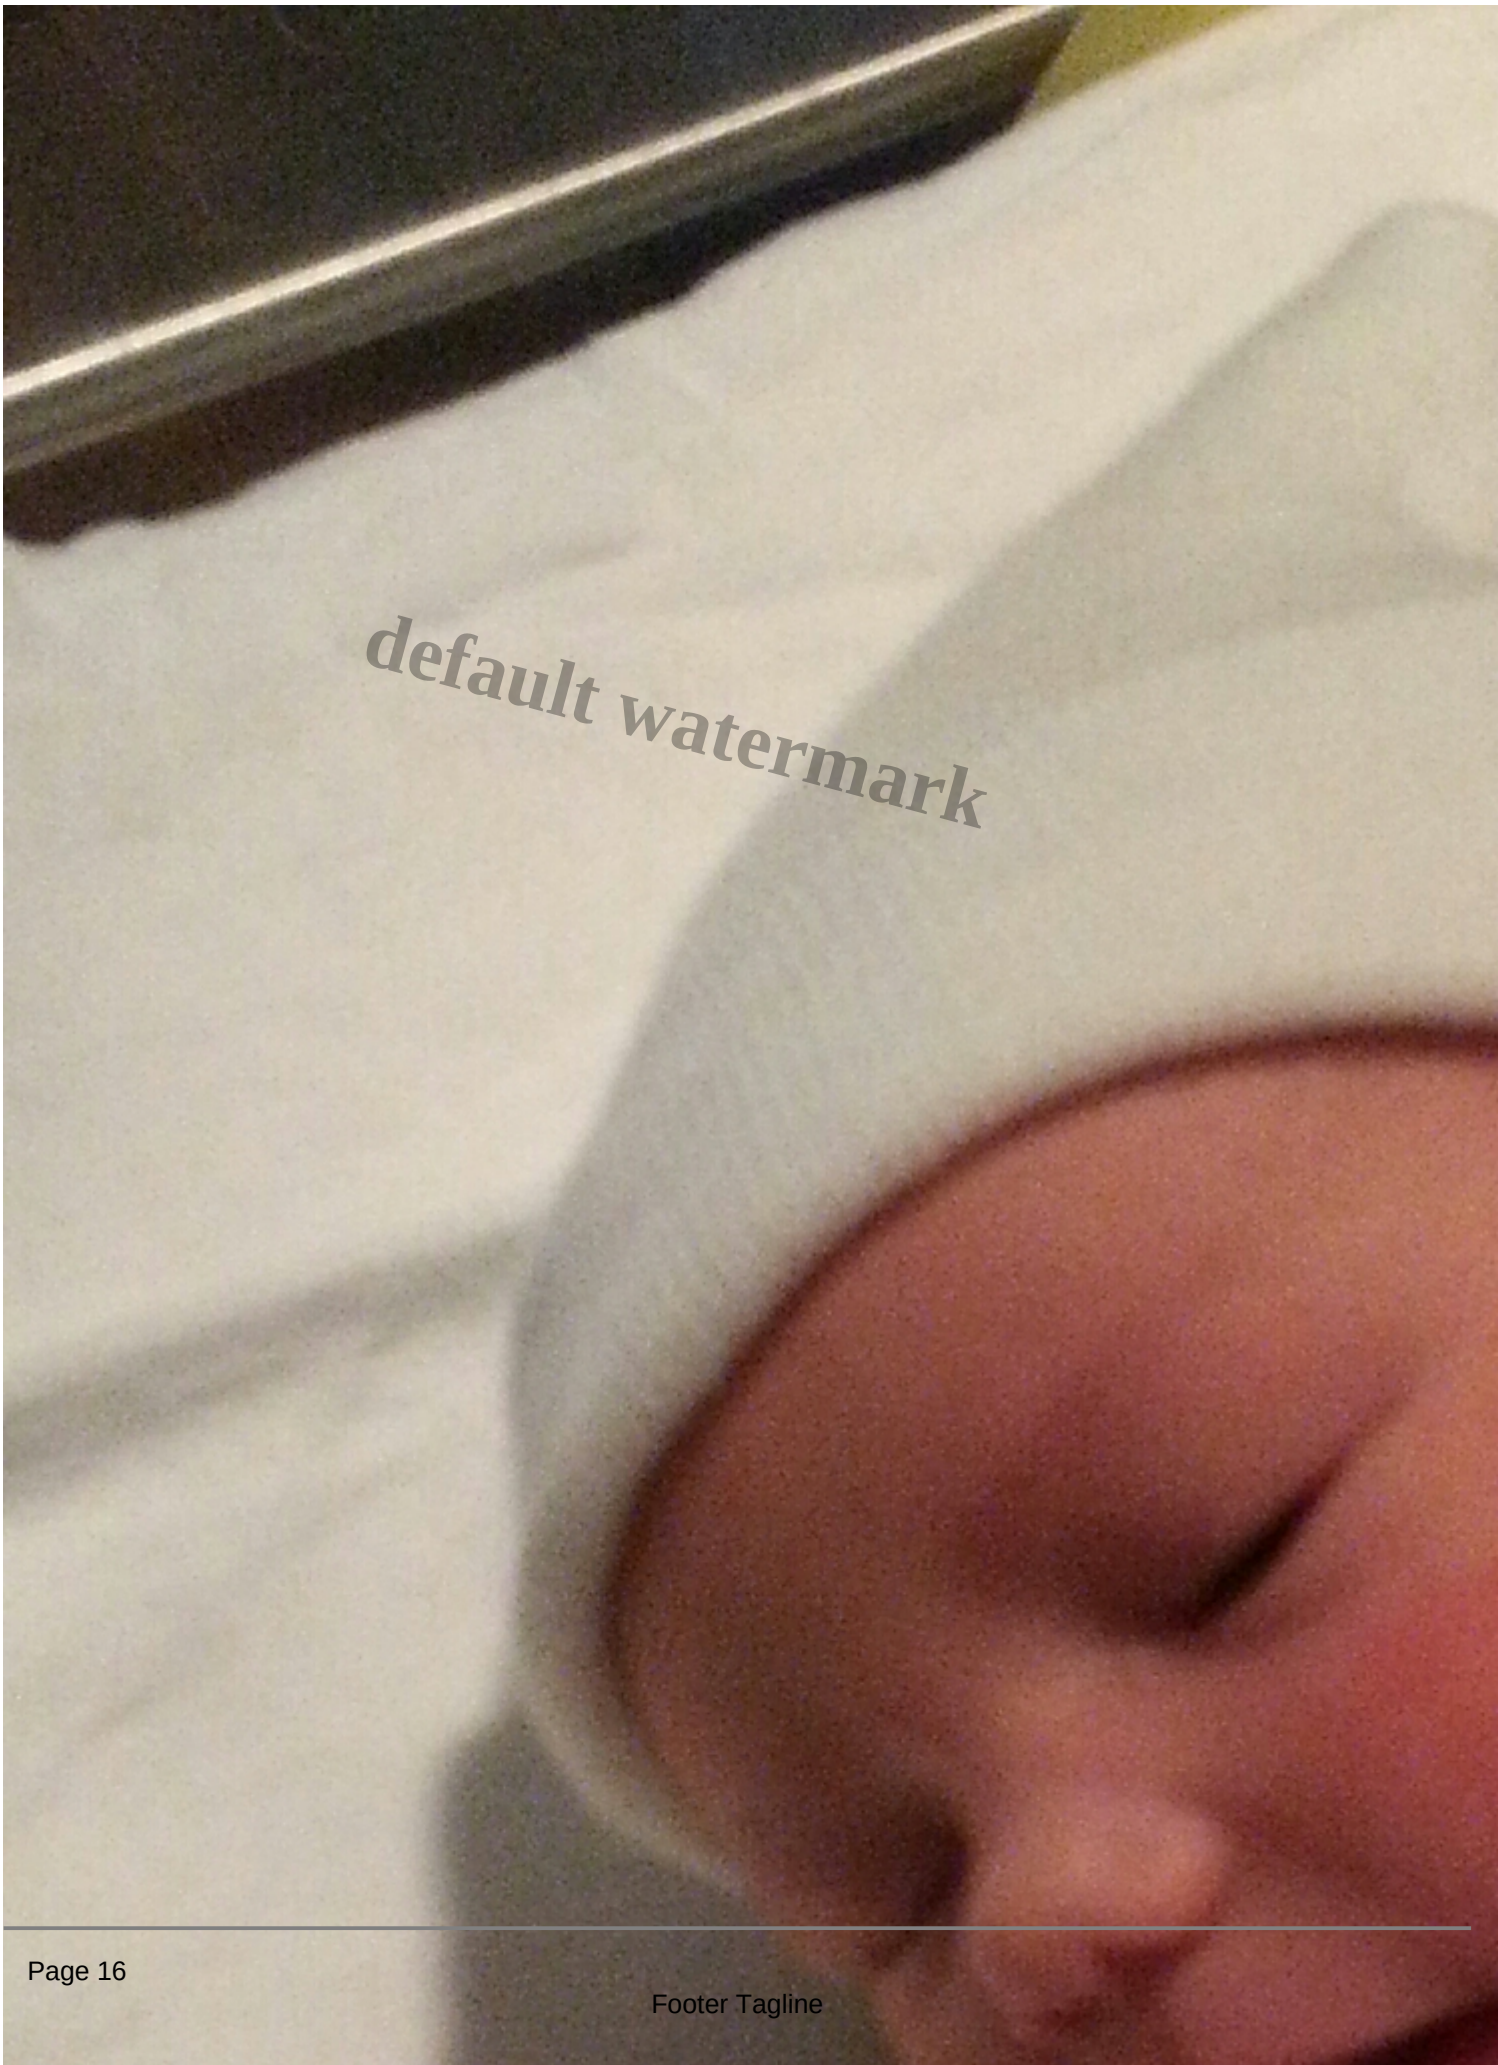
But she did great and brought us our sweet little Avery.

default watermark

Watermark

The deepest love we have ever known was now in front of us living and breathing as a healthy baby.

default watermark



default watermark

Once home, I immediately tried out the Baby Bjorn.

default watermark

default watermark

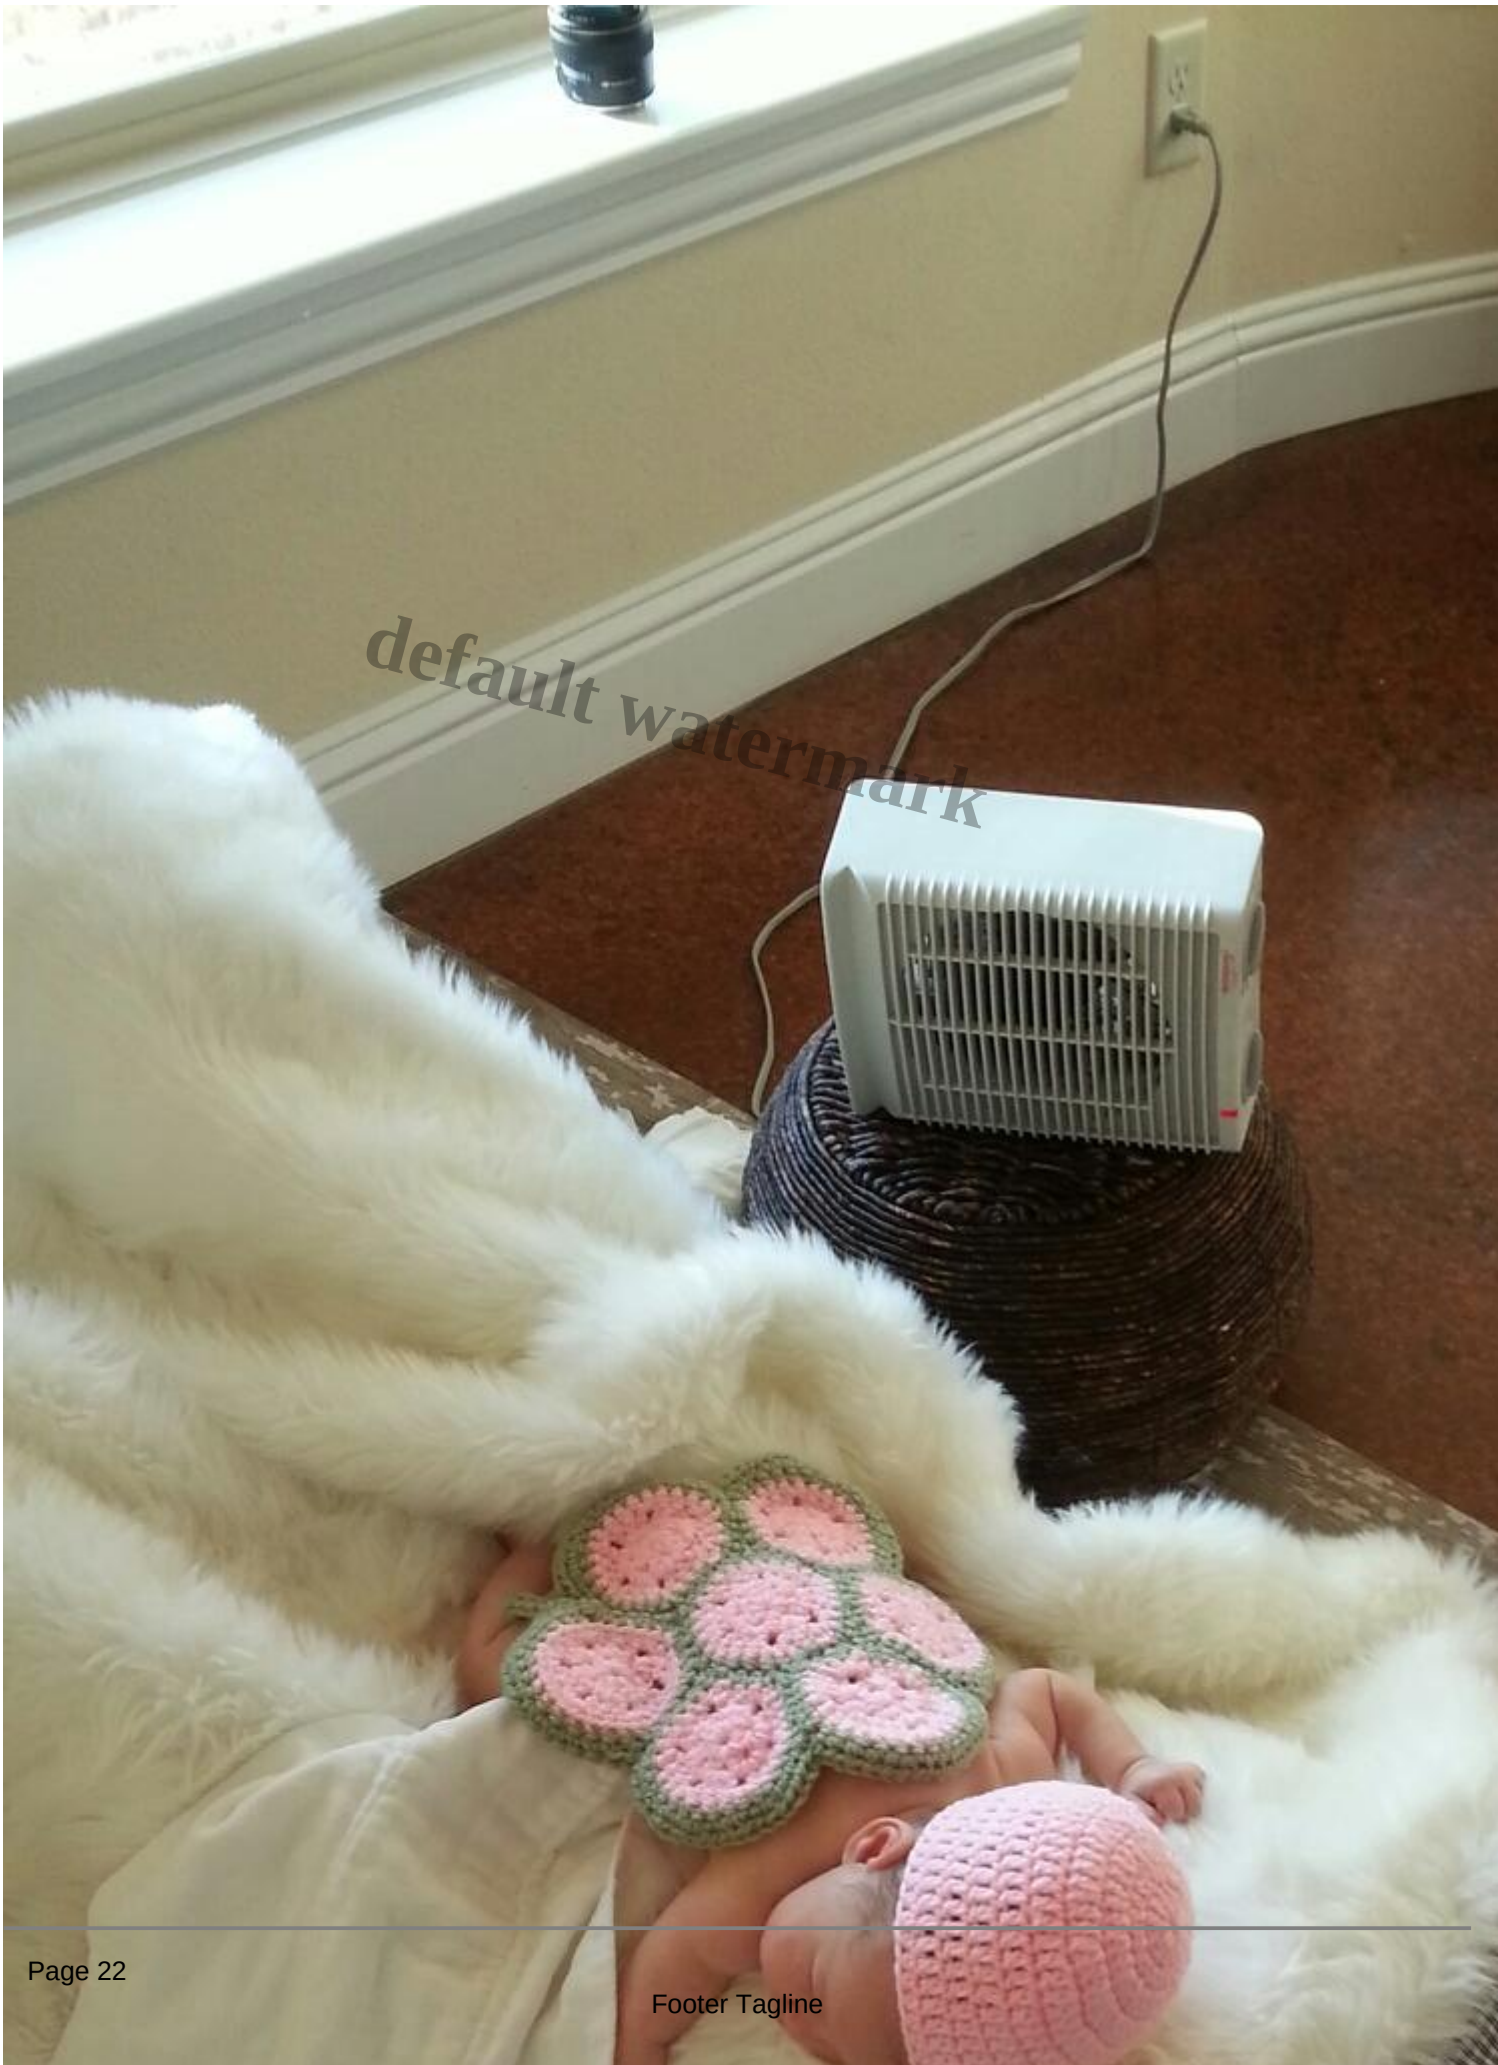
And Going Mom held her close with loving care as much as possible.

default watermark

default watermark

At four weeks we had her newborn pics taken, and I was even part of the props!

default watermark



default watermark

Within a few weeks, I successfully made it through a workout with Avery in the garage.

default watermark

default watermark

Then I grew bold enough to go on our first run.

default watermark

default watermark

Weâ€™ve been on many runs since the first and loving each one. The weather was nice that day, but then a major winter storm hit. No worries, Avery got to try on her bear suit!

default watermark

default watermark

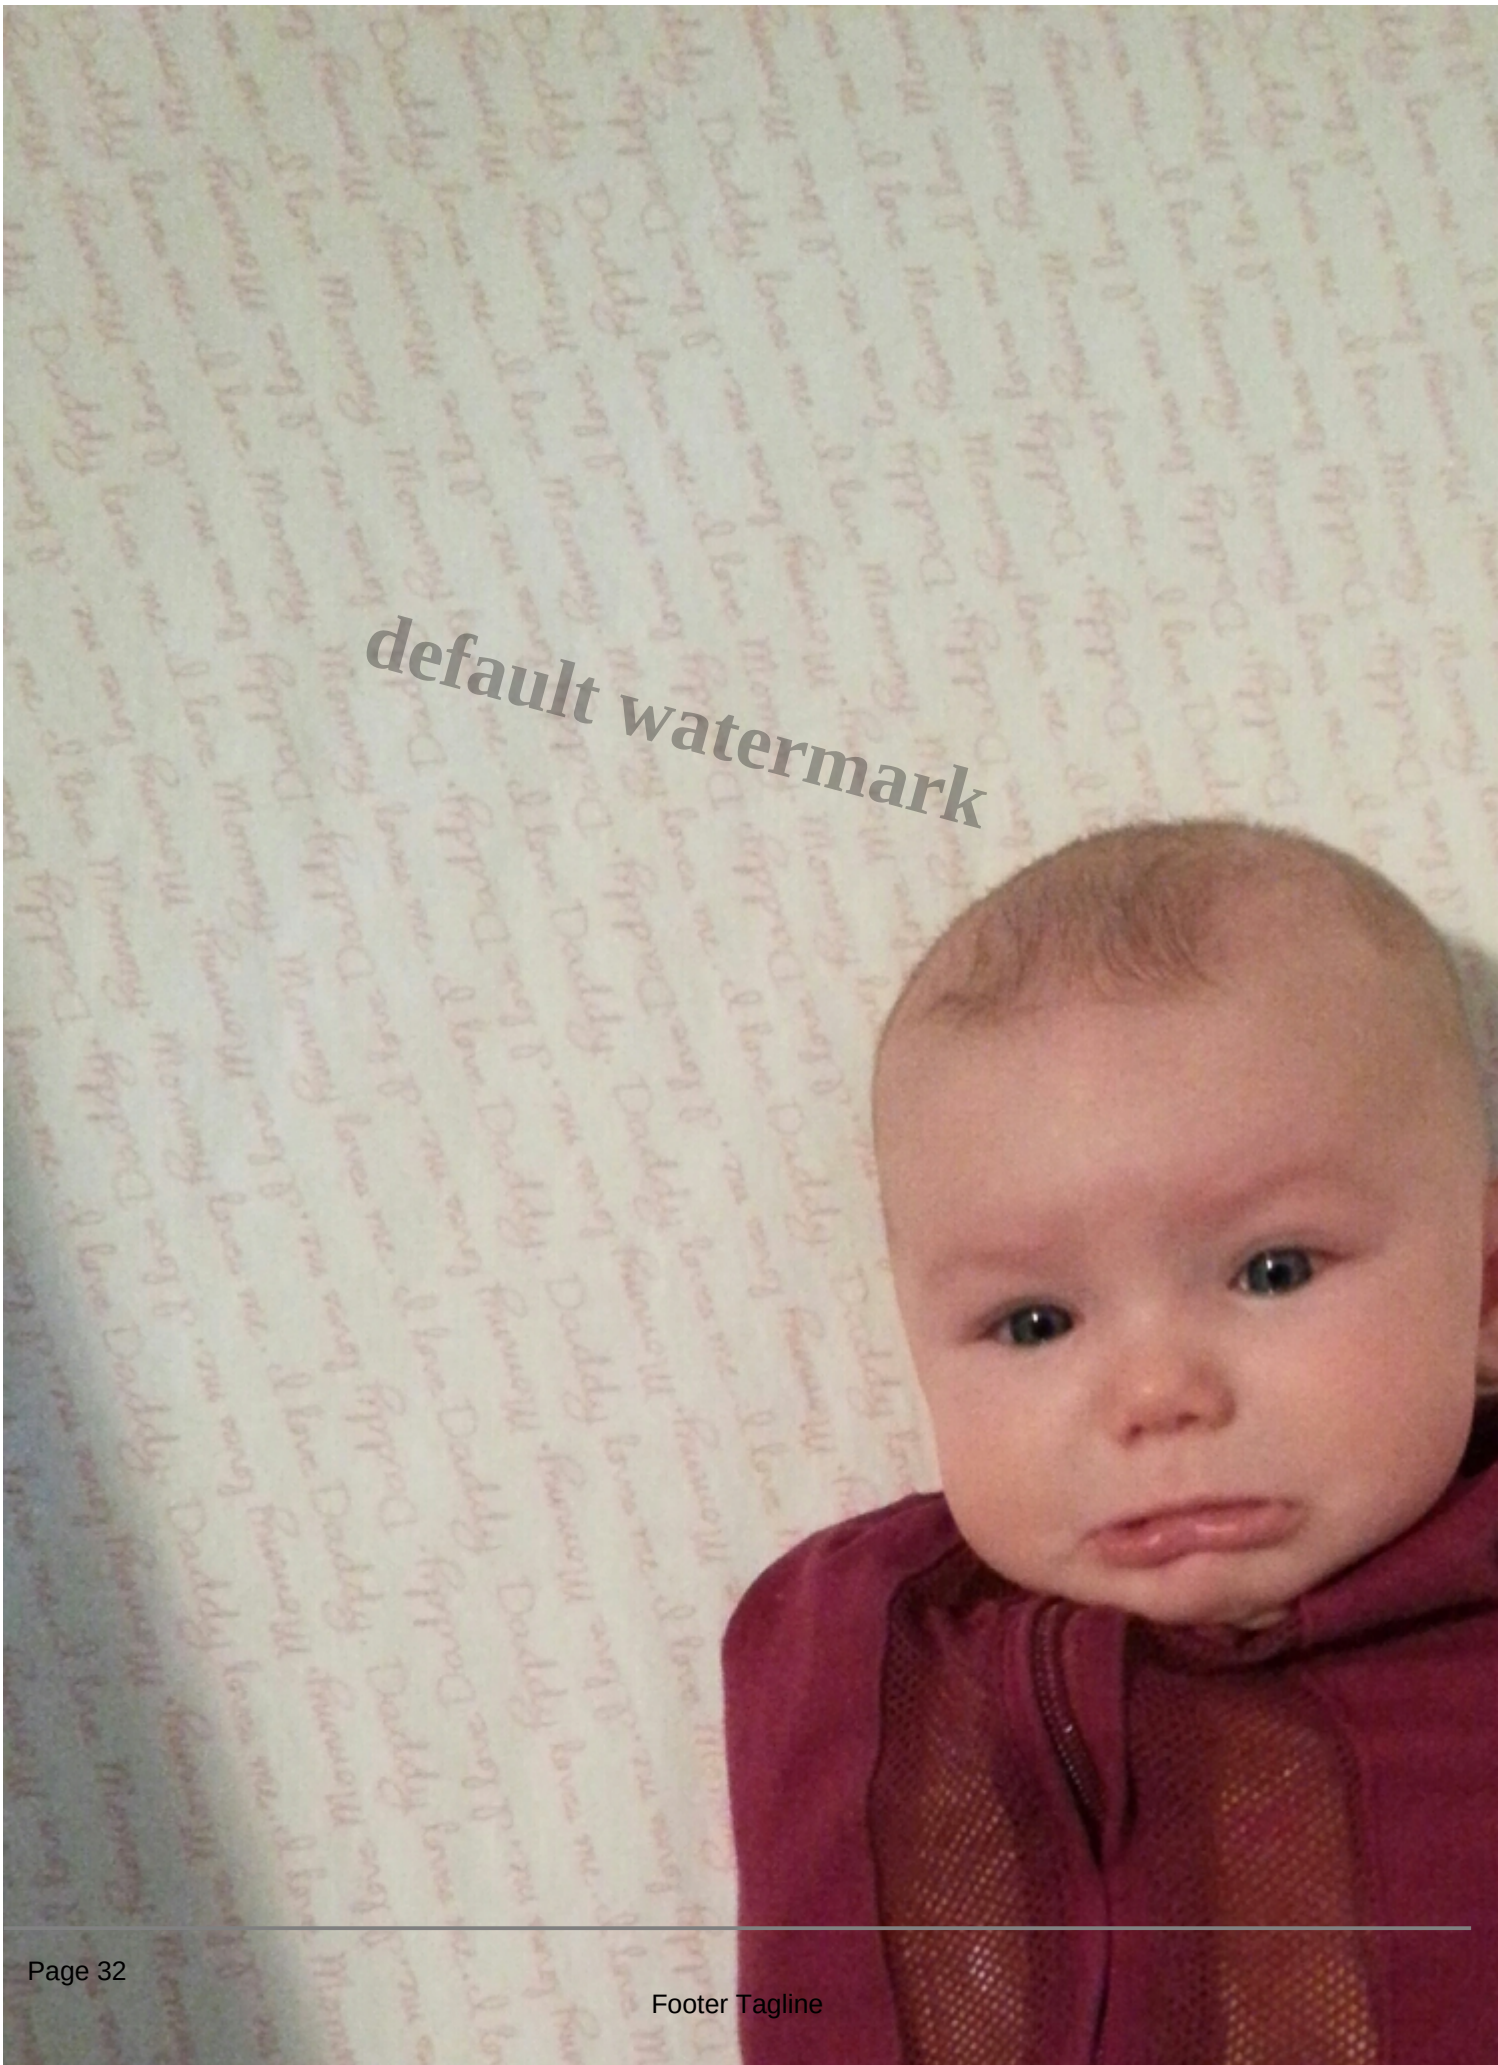
I guess she has some growing to do. I attempted to cut her fingernails and got her finger instead, but friends of the Facebook world let me know all parents have been there.

default watermark

default watermark

Swaddling was a huge part of our daily lives and keeping her arms from moving was vital to sleep!

default watermark



default watermark

Yeah, she wasnâ€™t a fan. I continued wearing her in the Bjorn before realizing I needed another carrier.

default watermark

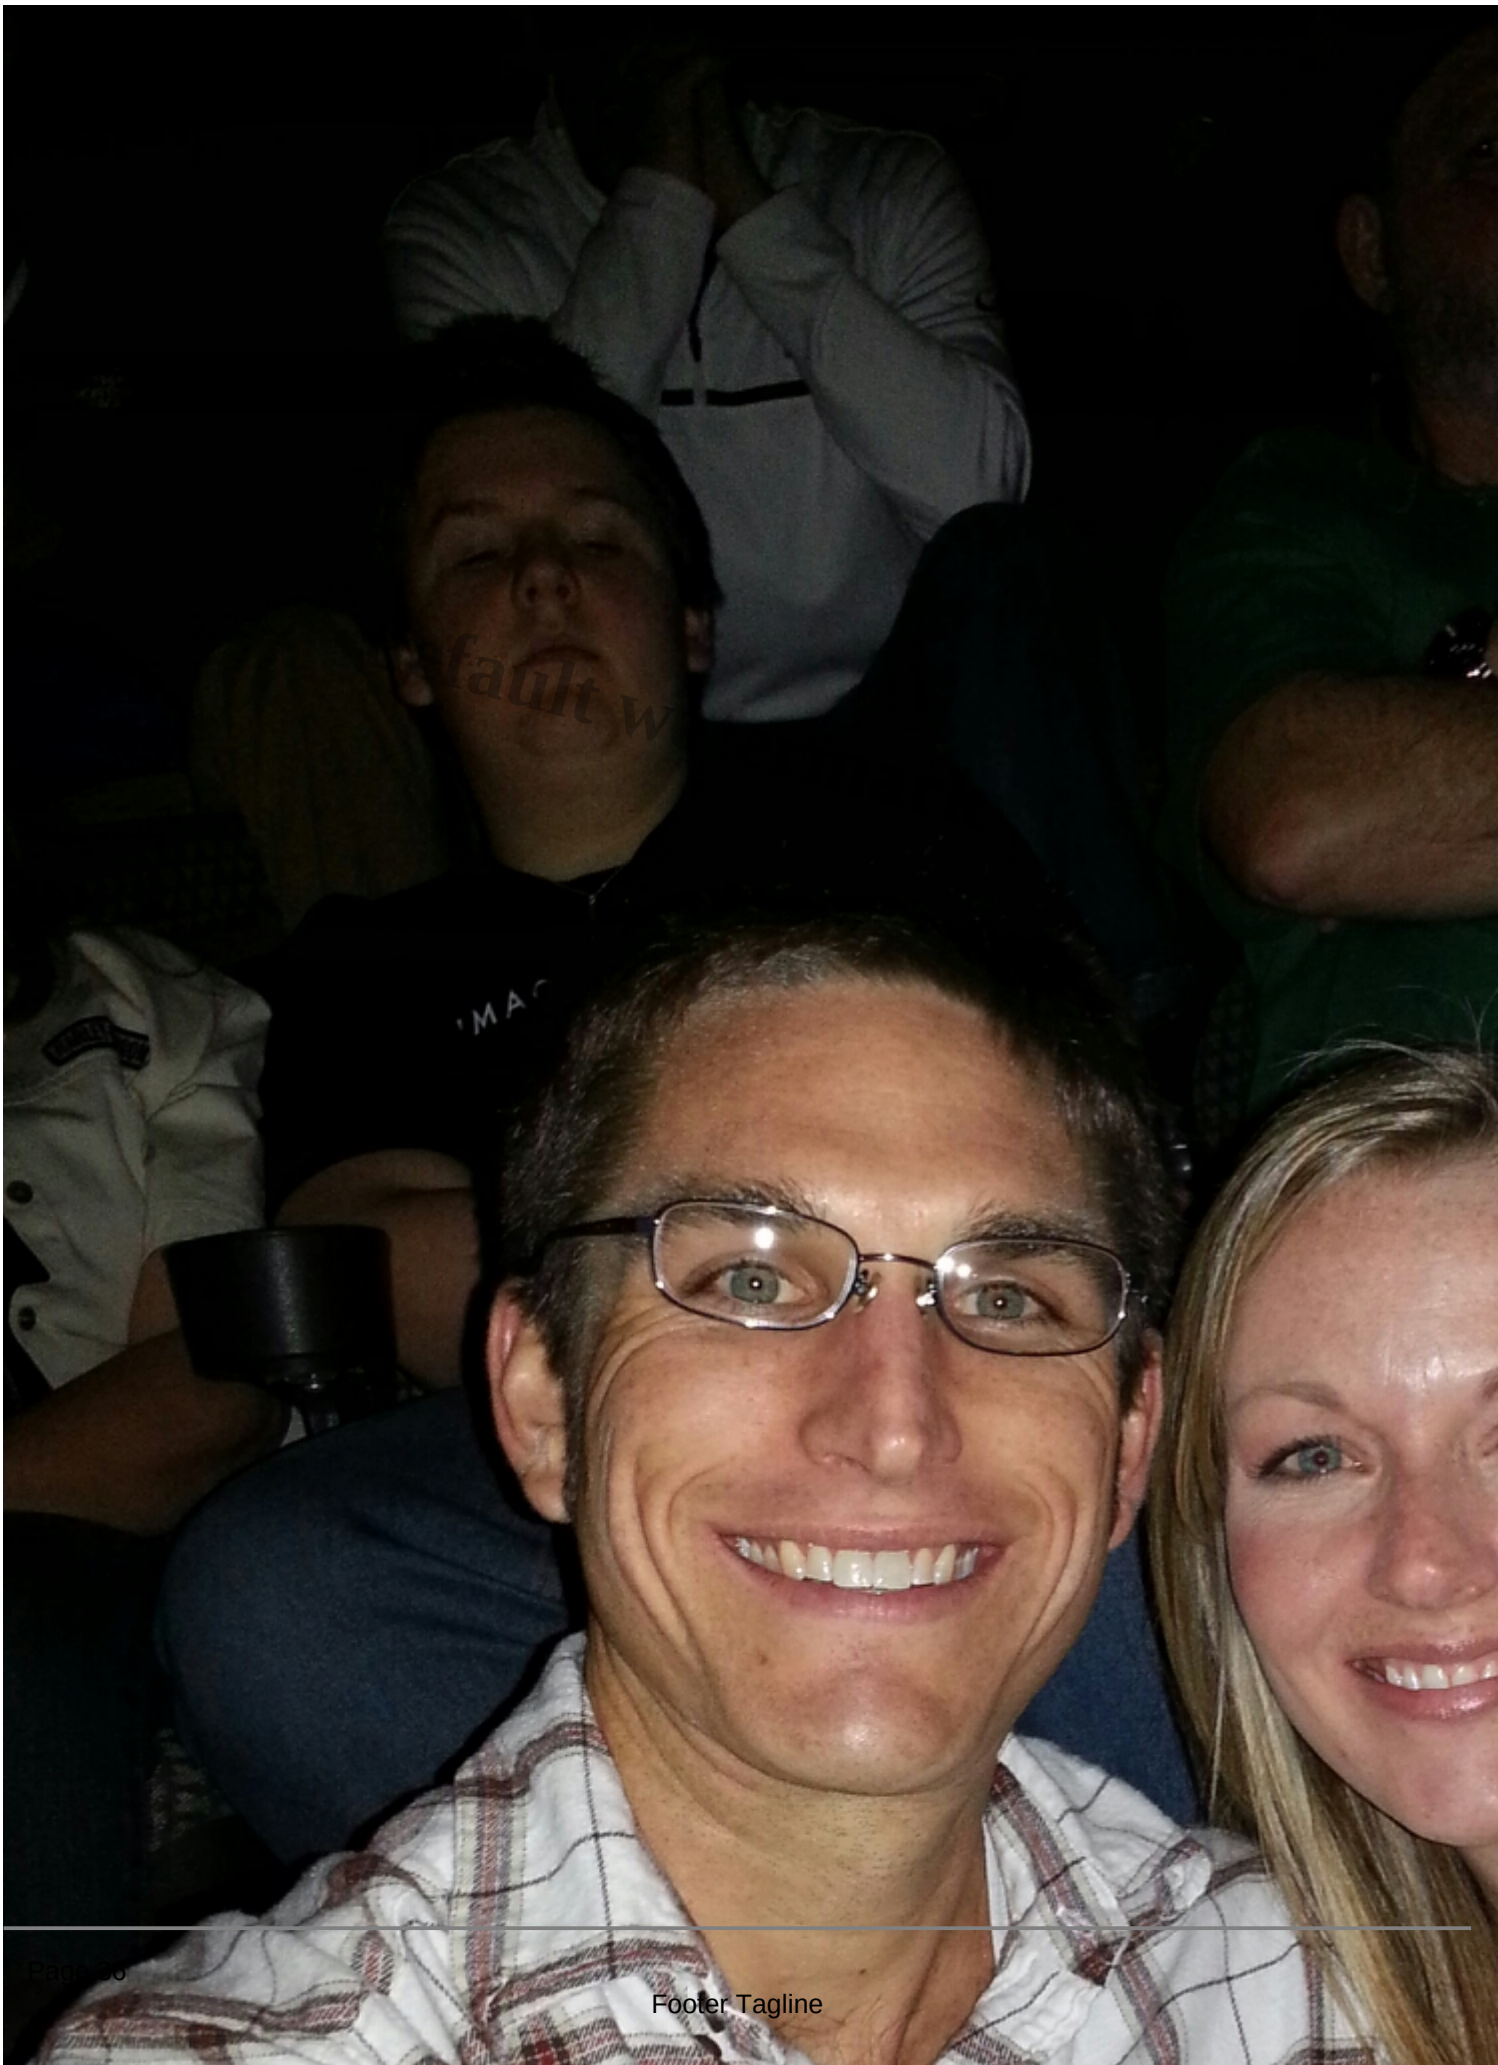
default watermark

G-ma got to enjoy holding a happy baby fitting one of her visits.

image

Going Mom and I had our first date while G-ma watched Avery.

default watermark



We saw Imagine Dragons in concert and had Chipotle and beer in the parking lot.

default watermark

default watermark

Once again, I tried cutting Averyâ€™s nails, and once again, I failed.

default watermark

default watermark

I made a visit to my old workplace, Kelleyâ€™s current employer, with Avery.

default watermark

default watermark

Kelley was happy to see us both.

default watermark

default watermark

We bought a jumper for Avery, but she was a little confused at first.

default watermark

default watermark

Avery had her four month shots and I donâ€™t think she enjoyed it; what do you think?

default watermark

default watermark

Finally, thanks to Onya Baby, I got a better baby carrier and was in love at first wear.

default watermark

default watermark

After she mastered rolling over, we â€œunwrappedâ€• the swaddle and put her in a Zippy from Zipadee-Zip. We all like it much better!

default watermark

default watermark

Now that sheâ€™s stronger, she also does better in her jumper.

default watermark

default watermark

But the best seat is her infant positioner from Mamas & Papas.

default watermark

default wat
50 OFF

We go everywhere together with the help of Onya, even in the rain.

default watermark

default watermark

And Going Mom is still holding her close and giving her all the love she can. Together, we are a happy family of three.

default watermark

default watermark

I hope everyone is enjoying their weekend and hopefully Iâ€™ll have internet soon again!

Edit: the internet came back late at night, but Iâ€™m leaving this post. Itâ€™s hard work to write a post on phone!!

What do you do when the internet is down? Itâ€™s sad how much we rely on it sometimes.

Date Created
2016/04/12

default watermark