

She's Already Changed So Much: Babywearing Progression Pictures

Description

With it being International Babywearing Week and all, I decided to take a look back at my babywearing journey thus far. Going Mom and I proudly started wearing Avery just weeks after she was born and haven't looked back since. Well, besides figuring out that our first carrier, the Baby Bjorn, was not an ideal option for parent or baby.

Luckily, I had the opportunity to try carriers from Onya Baby and Ergo Baby that they sent to me for review. You can read my review for the Onya Baby Outback here and the Ergo Baby Ventus here.

I still use both carriers with Onya being my go-to choice. I keep the Ergo on the car to use when we are out and about. I've mentioned many times on the benefits of wearing your baby, and would urge anyone to wear their baby as much as possible.

What started as a tiny, squishy baby pressed against me in a carrier, has transformed (and still going!) into a lively, albeit heavier, baby that I still wear every day for our afternoon walk. I know the time will come when she becomes too old/heavy to be worn, but that's still a ways away.

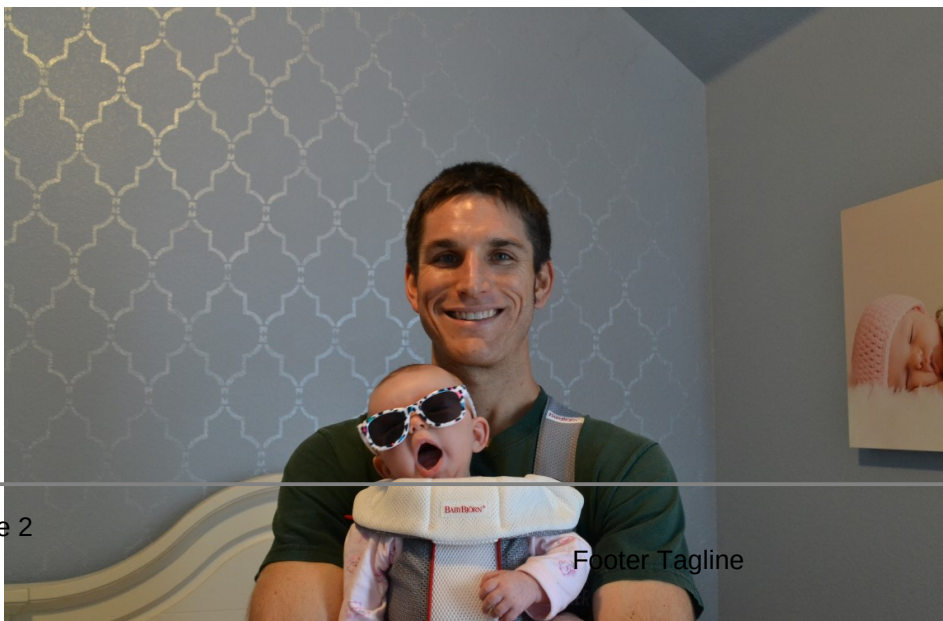

In celebration of International Babywearing Week, I wanted to post some of my favorite babywearing pictures with Avery. Hope this motivates you to get outside and wear your baby with loving pride!

First day as a stay-at-home dad. My new briefcase is always just hanging aroundâ€¦!

Bundled up for a cold walk

Okay, next

Gahhh! Iâ€™m wearing her all wrong!!

Mommy-daughter love

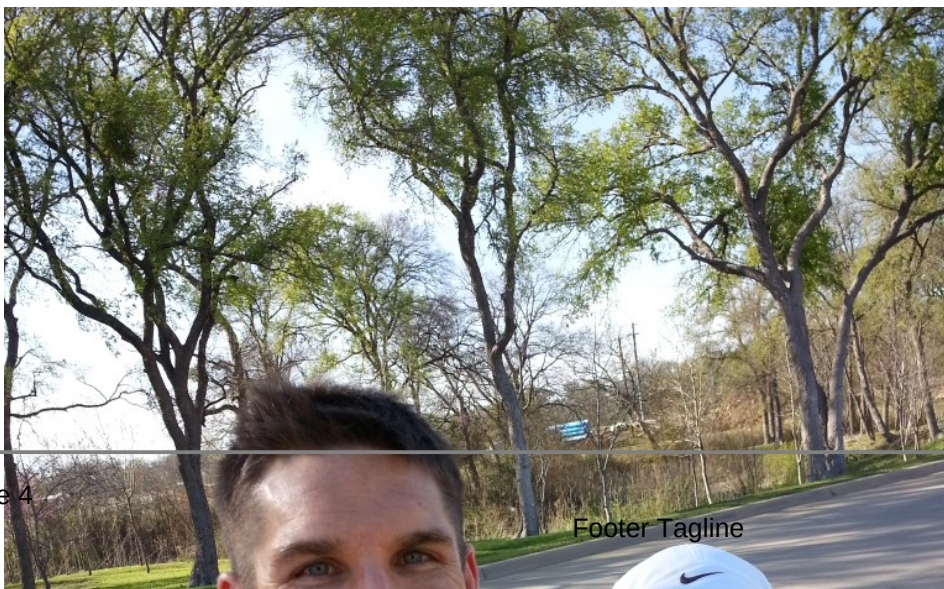

Daddy kisses in the Ergo

I can see!!

Color-matching and mowing€¦.win!!

Family walk with Avery taking a nap.

Elevation training mask + babywearing = not impressed

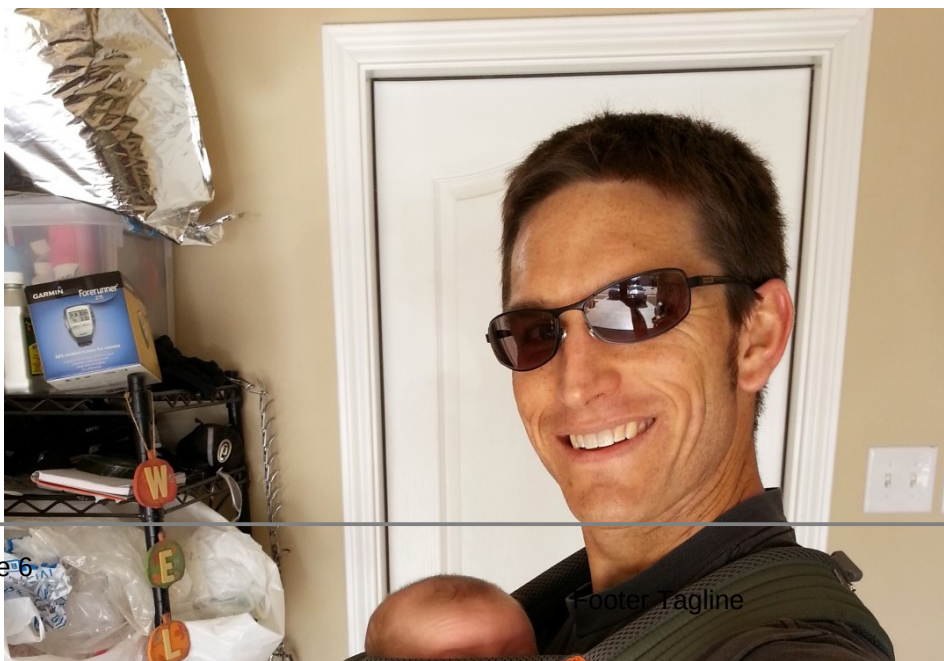

Good to know my baby has my back!

Petting the neighborhood ass.

How to "wear" in style in Texas.

Is it really just a “selfie” when you have your baby too?

Great view.

Splash pad in Fort Worth with the family for my birthday!

Will someone please stop him from mowing?!

I tried to keep these somewhat in order. Hope you enjoyed the pics and are ready to go wear your baby if arenâ€™t already.

Have you been celebrating Babywearing Week?

Do you do it ever day regardless?
