

Perfect View With Daddy: #MySundayPhoto â€” 04.26.15

Description

It was storming all day and finally let up before the sun was completely set. My wife, Avery, and I walked out front of our house to soak in the beautiful sunset as the clouds finally broke.

Again, big thanks to my lovely wife for capturing these lovely pictures of daddy and daughter watching the sun make way for the moon.

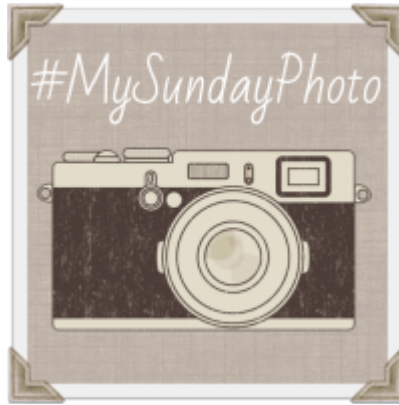

She wasnâ€™t happy with the port-a-potty in the background, but I think the beauty of everything else far outweighs the portable toilet. But, as Iâ€™ve been doing, I must share one more pic, and it does not have the blue plastic john in itâ€™s range. Again, thank my wife for keeping it out of this one.

How have storms been in your area?

Donâ€™t you just love the after-storm calmness?

Date Created
2015/04/25

default watermark