Road trips can be a great way to holiday without the fuss of a plane and the airport rush. As a parent, planning the ideal road trip can be a fun activity and you can get the kids involved in choosing destinations too. As fun as road trips can be with the kids, they can also be stressful.

Any parent knows that kids have a notoriously short attention span and this means we need to work hard to ensure they are entertained lest they become fussy in the car. Today we are going to take a look at how you can keep the kids entertained on a road trip and make sure that they don't fuss.

Download videos

The first idea you can try is to use Vidmate download to download some of your kids' favourite Youtube videos onto a tablet for the trip. By downloading videos locally instead of relying on the signal, it means that you can be sure your kids will have access to some form of entertainment no matter where you are. On long car trips often this is the best way to keep the kids happy and they will stay out of your hair as you drive.

Provide snacks

One of the other big factors that can change your child's mood in an instant is hunger. When your child is hungry, they can very quickly become stroppy and unmanageable and the last thing you want is to be stuck in a car with grumpy kids! Make sure to bring lots of snacks such as chips and cookies for the kids to eat during the trip, and this will keep them happy and ensure they don't get fussy.

Bring coloring books

It is important to make sure your kids have plenty of ways to entertain themselves in the car without posing a danger to you while driving. One great idea is to pack some crayons and coloring books or print out free coloring templates for the trip. Coloring books will keep the kids quiet and entertained for a long while and it will ensure that they don't start jumping around in the back of the car distracting you.

Play games

If you want to kill some time on the road with your kids, one way to do that is to play games on the road as a family. This can range anywhere from I Spy to 20 questions, or even spotting yellow cars on the journey. You'll always be able to find fun things to do on the road and you can make your trip into something fun for every member of the family.

Take regular breaks

One easy way to ensure the kids don't get too bored this year on a road trip is to take breaks regularly and stop off for a walk or to visit new places. Being stuck in a car for hours on end can get very boring so having a few rest stops along the way is a great idea for all of you and will stop you from going mad!

Have fun on your road trip this year and keep the kids happy!
