

Why June is “Going” to be Great for this Dad!

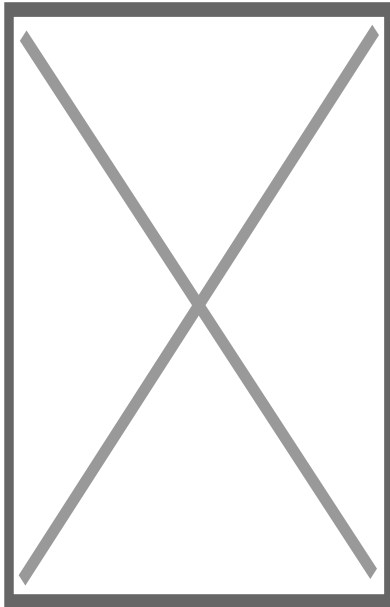

Description

Hey there, how’s it going?

Pretty good here, just having more problems than I expected with the new laptop I bought this past weekend. Really, why would anyone expect problems with something brand new? I messed around with the thing for most of Sunday and it put me in a bad mood. Luckily, my sweet wife was there to call me out and get me to focus on the important things; family!

I’m back at it today though, but only while Avery naps and Kelley is at work. I’ve got a lot to keep myself busy this week, and that’s in addition to raising our sweet daughter.

For one, I’m a proud ambassador for Oral-b and have joined forces with many other awesome dad bloggers to promote their new Oral B Black electric toothbrush and show what it means to have the #PowerofDad. This is going to be a great Father’s Day event!

Just looking at it makes my mouth clean!

There’s going to be a Twitter party today at 1pm EST with several prizes to give away. If you can, I’d love to see you join; just search for and use the #PowerofDad hashtag to join in on the excitement!

Thatâ€™s not all, Iâ€™m also working with Onya Baby for another Fatherâ€™s Day campaign on cleaning up your neighborhood. I walk around our neighborhood with Avery every day and despise seeing so much junk from new construction sites and careless people. I want to take pride and clean up the trash around my home and hope you will join me. There will be a brand new Onya Baby Carrier giveaway as well, so keep checking back for details!

Trying our new Onya Baby NexStep made from 100% recycled material.

On top of this, Iâ€™ll be celebrating my 30th birthday and first Fatherâ€™s Day! And the day before my 30th, I will be running a 5k with Avery in the stroller; our first official race! Iâ€™ll share the details on the race soon, but just couldnâ€™t hold it in any longer! Yep, we have a lot going on and I canâ€™t wait to share all of the excitement with you!

What do you have on the agenda for June?
