

Blinded By Happiness: #MySundayPhoto â€“ 04.12.15

Description

Iâ€™ve fallen behind on the amount of pictures I take of Avery this week. This is both a good and bad thing, but mostly good.

Bad in the sense that I donâ€™t have as many pictures to choose from for #MySundayPhoto, but good (if not great) because I spent more time just playing with Avery instead of sticking a camera in her face.

Sometimes I think we all forget the most important part is time, and we donâ€™t need 100+ pics a day. I know itâ€™s hard, but so worth it. Now if only I can do better about this from now onâ€¹.

But itâ€™s hard when you capture your kid beaming with delight and not a worry in the world, isnâ€™t it? Hereâ€™s one I snapped of Avery being â€œblinded by happinessâ€•.

The quality wasnâ€™t that great to start with, as it was fairly dark and grainy. I think with the exposure adjustment and sepia combo, it turned out pretty good. Please check out the original below and let me know what you think.

Are you a chronic picture taker or feel like you need to take more pics?

Do you like using full color or enjoy using more black & white, sepia, etc for picture formats?

Date Created
2015/04/11