

10 Month Photo Session + Friday Foodie Fun Facts: Mushrooms

Description

Our past few monthly photo sessions have been quite eventful to say the least, but it seems Avery has calmed down a bit since then. She still fights with her bear, as if it just insulted her crazy, curly hair, but keeping her on the chair wasn't as difficult this time.

Going Mom had to work later than usual, so I figured I'd try and take a few 10 month pics alone before she arrived home. If I tried this for her 7th, 8th, or 9th session, I would've failed miserably, and maybe have an injured baby!

For this reason, I started with her on the floor in fear of what might happen if I set her on the chair and step away.

But, much to my surprise, Avery actually stayed away from the chair's edge once I gathered the courage to test her. Matter of fact, she didn't do much at first.

No worries, she quickly warmed up and started flashing some funny/crazy faces as she tosser her bear around. Here are some of my favorites from the solo session before my wife came home to assist.

Iâ€™m cute and you know it!

There might be poop and there might notâ€¦ only one way to find out!

Check out my spit bubbles!

Quick, Dad, look over there!

Hey bear, can we be friends forever?

What? I canâ€™t hear you!

Yeah, thatâ€™s what I thought!

Thankfully, Kelley arrived home ready for more picture taking, so we went back to the chair. I suck at getting Avery âœœdressed upâœ• and choose clothes that make it easier for diaper changes over how she looks. Sorry, Avery, thatâ€™s why people always ask âœœHow old is HE?âœ•

Since it was late, Kelley opted just to put a bow on Avery after I talked her out of picking a completely new outfit. Iâ€™d say Avery was just happy to have both parents at home and spending time with her.

Iâ€™m on to you, bearâ€¦.

Still cuteâ€¦.check!

This is my bashful pose

Our love for Avery is unconditional, and her personality develops more and more each day. Not long ago, we had a baby who would just lie dormant wherever we sat her and she was completely reliant on us to move her. But now, ha, sheâ€™s zipping all over the house and makes it apparent sheâ€™s ready to walk very soon!

I could go on raving about our sweet girl forever, but now itâ€™s time for Friday Foodie Fun Facts. This month, I have partnered with Life of Dad and The Mushroom Council and recently published a sponsored post for #ShroomTember with a recipe and details on how you can win \$500. Today, Iâ€™m going to share fun and interesting shroom facts from The Mushroom Councilâ€™s website.

Besides being delicious when cooked or raw, mushrooms deliver a host of beneficial nutrients not found in many other foods. Their wide variety and multiple uses make them perfect to always have on hand. Instead of the normal list, hereâ€™s a handy infographic to loaded with mushroom info.

default watermark

default watermark

The healthy benefits of mushrooms span far and wide, and if you™d like to learn more, visit The Mushroom Council™s page on the nutritional benefits of mushrooms.

Hope you found one or more things you didn™t know about mushrooms and you™re inspired to go out and try some this weekend.

Are you a fan of mushrooms or can™t stand the sight of them?

Any favorite types and/or recipes?

Date Created

2014/09/19

default watermark