

Something My Wife Will Never Have Again

Description

A little girl at the beginning of her age.

Yep, Going Mom is 30 years old today!

Happy Birthday, Kelley, hope you're enjoying your long weekend with Avery and me so far! You mean the world to both of us and we're both happy you are in our life!

Have a great day shopping and make sure you get some more "maternity" clothes to match your age. Oh wait, guess this joke doesn't work if I'm also 30, damn.

Anyway, here's a little poem I originally wrote for your 28th birthday as we were in the midst of trying to conceive that I updated:

Our Years Together, Updated

In 2003, we were instantly stuck together

In 2004, I joined you in the Oklahoma weather

In 2005, we got our first pet, Gus

In 2006, we were engaged in Vegas

In 2007, you became my wife

In 2008, we started the same business life

In 2009, we both ran 26.2

In 2010, we agreed not to go back to Simply Fondue

In 2011, we sold our second home and built another

In 2012, we were ready to be father and mother

In 2013, we welcomed Avery into our life

Here in 2014, you're now my beautiful 30 year old wife

Life in the 20's was getting boring anyway, and our 30's will be full of memories watching Avery grow! ☺

Happy Birthday Kelley/Wife/Mommy!! Always Much Love!!

Date Created

2014/10/19

default watermark