

22 Month Photo Session + Posing As The 7 Dwarfs

Description

This month's photo session was more rushed than most of the previous ones, so our picture count was minimal in comparison. Luckily, Avery graced the camera with several expressions earlier in the day that I felt compelled to share.

Okay, so I always feel compelled to share, but these pictures aren't just like the random photos I always take. Fine, you got me again, they are, but after looking through them, I noticed a close semblance to The Seven Dwarfs. Some more than others, but close nonetheless.

	Snow White Snow White is a kind and gentle princess, with lips red as a rose and skin white as snow.		Bashful Being around Snow White increases bashful's tendency to bury his head but she doesn't mind.
	Doc Self proclaimed leader of the group, Doc often loses his train of thought and bumbles around, looking over the dwarfs.		Dopey Although Dopey may annoy Doc & Grumpy, his intentions are silly and he is often the core of the dwarfs jokes.
	Happy Fat and jolly with a friendly personality, Happy maintains laughter and joy amongst the dwarfs.		Sleepy White always eager to fall asleep, Sleepy is considered the most observant amongst the dwarfs.
	Sneezy A bad case of hayfever causes Sneezy to sneeze violently and frequently but he doesn't let that stop him from having fun.		Grumpy Grumpy tends to be irritated with the other dwarfs antics and opposes allowing Snow White to stay with them.

All I was doing was snapping photos and never asked her to make any of the faces. This makes it even more astonishing (at least to me) that she hit mimicked the munchkin Snow White characters without having ever seen the movie. See for yourself and tell me if it's just crazy or if you can see it too.

Doc – It's like she's listening with a stethoscope, and she's obviously wearing a look of concern for others.

Happy – That smug look may not be an ear-to-ear grin, but you certainly can’t say she’s not happy here.

Sneezy – If ‘Scaredy’ was the name, this would be more appropriate, but I would argue she’s gearing up for a big sneeze here!

Bashful – She even has those cute cheeks fluffed up from holding everything in.

Dopey – If you were to pose as Dopey, wouldn't you do something like this too?

Sleepy – Spot. On.

Grumpy – Her face might say “Happy”, but just read the sign language for her true feelings!..

My first thought, when going through these pictures, was of the Three Wise Monkeys who “Hear no evil, see no evil, and speak no evil”, but then the dwarfs came to mind. The pictures for Doc (Hear no evil), Bashful (Speak no evil) and Sleepy (See no evil) were the ones I felt fit best. Yes?

Now for the 22 month photo session. I only have a few to share this month, hence my dwarf pose pictures above to fulfill the multi-pictures I usually do. First, we took her by surprise with a quick snap of the camera!

Avery quickly caught on and flashed us a grin as she raised her super flexible leg. She seriously puts her feet to face with ease, and does so quite often.

Then my wife and I both spouted out several pose commands at once while I waved my arms like a crazy ape in order to get her to smile. The result?

Not impressed, not the slightest. But, the mention of cheese (the actual food) made her smile and say it out loud. Going Mom was quick with the camera and caught the quick showing of her pearly whites which marked the end of our session.

Really, that pic should be her Happy dwarf pic. There you have it, our 22 month old posing as characters sheâ€™s never seen and giving one big grin for her monthly photo session.

Ack! I just thought of how weâ€™ll soon be saying her age in years! Isnâ€™t 2 the norm for when you do that? Or is it still acceptable to go by months? If so, for how long?

Do you have any pictures of your kids that bear semblance to movie (cartoon or real) characters?

Date Created

2015/09/18