

Staring Into Space: #MySundayPhoto â€“ 03.08.15

Description

Itâ€™s been pictures galore in our house, and we only have one subject; Avery. No surprise, huh? This weekâ€™s My Sunday Photo is of Avery staring out of our windows where a new house is being built behind us.

Weâ€™ve been watching the workers quickly and efficiently construct the two story house that seems to dwarf our one story, but hopefully the new neighbors will be nice!

I have no clue what Iâ€™m doing when it comes to editing photos, but figured Iâ€™d have fun and see what I can come up with. Here is the original photo:

Cute, of course, because, when isnâ€™t she? But here is what I came up with. I just messed around with the basics like hue, brightness, etc. and added a blur effect.

What do you think? Too much? Any quick tips on how to make photos a little more lively? I want to try doing a black and white one but having just one part in color. What is that called?

Date Created
2015/03/07